HERE'S WHAT TRAVEL WILL LOOK LIKE IN 2021 ACCORDING TO PSYCHICS

It's hard to believe that less than a year ago, we could hop on a last-minute travel deal to somewhere warm and beachy without worrying about a novel virus.

Psychics have long been a debated topic, with many investing in their supernatural powers and others rolling their eyes in doubting disapproval. While there is no way to prove fortune-tellers exist, it can be exciting and perhaps an eye-opening experience to learn their insights.

Since so much of the travel industry is out of our control during the pandemic, we thought it would be fun to hear from psychics and mediums about what they foresee in the next lap around the sun. Below, they share their predictions.

Travel will feel more normal after Labor Day.

After many more months of quarantine and taking precautions, psychic medium and reiki healer Kelly Dillon predicts we will all be able to travel more generally in the summer of 2021.

Around this time, she sees the pandemic winding down and many people picking up their old routines and habits. She says Labor Day will be a pivotal point, since she doesn't think professionals will return to the office regularly until after this summer holiday.

Road trips will continue to be popular, picking up again in April

With international borders largely closed to travel this year, many people chose to hit the road and visit domestic destinations instead. According to psychic medium Karen Kilmartin, this trend will continue into 2021 and pick up steam starting in April. "Families and families of friends are missing each other and appreciating each other more than ever," she shares. "We can expect to see more families taking driving vacations to visit family and family-friendly places like Disney World in
